Damage Done At Cemetery Makes Beautification Job Harder

This is not a nice story—but you should read it anyway.

A cemetery to most people is a place to be respected and honored but as in all things there are a few in the world who respect nothing and do not know the meaning of honor—such are the people who use the cemetery as a shooting range and other ignorant practices.

Last winter someone broke into the caretakers shed and made off with wrenches worth over $30, one of which was later found in an irrigation ditch. A barrel of gasoline stored there was also stolen.

Last spring some careless person drove over a valve, breaking it and the water line - it didn't take very much time or thought to do it but it cost quite a bit of time and money to replace and repair it.

Throughout the summer boys (and men) with .22's use the tombstones as targets with the result that some of the stones are so pockmarked it is hard to think of them as such.

Throughout the ages man has had respect for the dead but things seem to be changing. For sport nowadays boys have a liking for tipping over tombstones—a game for which little or no intelligence is needed, maybe that is why it is so popular.

"See Better Week" Sept. 13 To 18

A nation-wide "See Better... Learn Better" Week, September 13 - 18, is being sponsored by the Canadian Association of Optometrists to impress upon parents and educators and health officials the importance of visual care of schoolchildren. A statement issued by the Association's president, C. A. Palmer of Lethbridge, Alta., points out that actual surveys show that two out of five children are handicapped in school performance by visual problems.

Stressing the fact that a child who does not see well cannot grow well, play well or learn well, Mr Palmer quotes from the book on this subject written by Dr Arnold Gesell, former head of Yale University's child development clinic: "a child posture, his manual skills and co-ordination, his intelligence and even his personality all depend upon eyesight."

Late Summer Wedding For Gene Garner and Dick Bowden

A late summer wedding was solemnized in the Alberta Temple recently when Gene, daughter of Mr and Mrs Harold Garner became the bride of Dick, the son of Mr and Mrs Clarence Bowden, in a double ring ceremony performed by President Smith.

The radiant bride chose a gown of traditional white satin designed with a lace edged peplum and a Queen Anne collar and a lace edged peplum which rippled from the waistline of the bouffant skirt. Her fingertip veil of illusion net trimmed with lace fell from a crown of pearls, and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Eva Litt attended her sister as Matron of Honor, wearing for the occasion a gown of yellow and carrying a bouquet of tallamans shaded gladioli, while Laveri Ferguson wore pink complimented by white and pink gladioli. The two flower girls were Patsy Salmon and Margo Bowden who looked sweet in gowns of blue and yellow while carrying nosegays of pink mums. Mrs Garner chose for her daughter's wedding a frock of lavender lace while Mrs Bowden chose a grey silk print with each wearing a corsage of red roses.

The groom was attended by his brothers Bill and Gordon Bowden.

Many friends and relatives called at the Stake House during the evening to extend their best wishes to the newly weds who received the guests under an archway of pink and white streamers adorned with pink roses. Multicolors of gladioli also added to the beauty of the background as did the sweetpeas which were used lavishly throughout the lounge.

Mr and Mrs Wm. Anderson and Mr and Mrs Art Garner and Mr and Mrs Bob Salmon greeted the guests as they arrived while Alice Garner presided at the Guest Book. The gifts were attractively arranged by June Fawns, Vivian Preston, Jo-Anne Salmon, Vivian Heggie and Edna McLeod.

Mr and Mrs Hamp Witbeck attended to the seating of the guests for the tasty lunch and entertaining program, with Dorothy and Louise Bowden in charge of the refreshment table assisted by Joyce and Janice Stevenson. Myrna Hancock, Eva Dahl, Necla Holt and Kathleen Fairbanks. The bride's table was centered by the beautifully decorated cake which was encircled by red carnations nestled in the folds of white nylon tulleing.

Arlidge Hill was the jovial emcee for the program which consisted of vocal numbers from the trio, Gen, Laura and Jeanine, followed by a violin solo by Nyal Fletcher, after which Joe McLean sang "The Lord's Prayer" Jeanine Jensen rendered the number "Because" followed by the Frank Taylor, Paul Redd, Ira McBride and Deb Oler quartet, after which Judy Tolley of Milk River sang two number followed by "The Bride's Prayer" by Vivian Preston and a Reading by Olive Steed. The tribute to the bride was given by Bob Salmon with the groom responding after which Ken Garner closed with prayer.

Before leaving on their honeymoon trip to Kalispell and Waterton the bride donned a white linen suit with red and white accessories and a corsage of red roses. They are now making their home in the basement suite of Mr and Mrs Ab. Hague.

Big Crowd For Mutual Party

The Fourth Ward Mutual entertained a capacity crowd at Four Ward Mutual Thursday, September 9th by featuring an M.I.A. Breakfast Club. Kay Redd acted the Master of Ceremonies, Gordon Cooper assisted and Kenneth Stone represented any Ward Mutual nearing the end of a season - needing new blood in its veins. The program was of excellent calibre, pepping it to a pitch of amusement and hilarity, filling the audience with that vitamin so necessary to make any program a success. Tom Wood starred the fisherman on Raymond's main St. (before the hardsurface) with Richard Allen and Lynn Stone playing "the suckers." Doreen Wilde, of Welling, sang "The Little Drummer Boy." Gordon Stone led a large crowd of younger set in a marcharound the breakfast table. Aunt Grace Allen capably substituted for Aunt Fanny. Library Was Closed But Work Was Being Done

All was not still behind the doors of the doors of the public library during the month of July when they were closed to the public - as a matter of fact that was a busy month for our Librarian who spent the time restitching and repairing three or four hundred books, as well as cleaning the remainder of the volumes. Another big job she was happy to have completed was the resorting of 45,000 Index Cards that were inadvertently mixed during the move to the new Library building.

The entire Library was given a thorough cleaning and the Magazine Room and Visual Aids Room which are located in the old library building, were painted and rugs laid making them bright and attractive rooms. Donations to these rooms were made by the Canadian Culture Class and Max Heggie.

If you have ever had the frustrating experience of reading an article that you wish to locate later and were unable to recall the magazine or issue in which it was found, you will be happy to learn that in the Library there is a "Reader's Guide" which is an index to all the well known magazines.

As the evenings grow longer and more time is spent at home, reading regains its popularity and to meet this need a hundred new fall books have arrived and are being indexed and placed on the shelves each day. Since the first of the year $500 worth of books have been placed on the shelves through the government grant, and before the year is over this amount will be met by the town in order that our Library may again qualify for the maximum grant, which it has done for the past fifteen years.

You may wonder as we did, where all these books are going to be put as the years go by in as much there are few discards, and were interested to learn that there is room for several more racks to be placed in the area presently used.

A motoring trip to Creston, B.C. and then to Banff and Calgary was enjoyed by Mr and Mrs Derald West and Mr and Mrs Glen Bullock over Labor Day week-end.

"SEE BETTER WEEK"

The Association refers to the research work of Dr. Darell B. Harmon, former educational services director, Texas State department of health; as the result of a survey he conducted covering 160,000 elementary schoolchildren, Dr Harmon states that poorly lighted and improperly designed, decorated and furnished school rooms account for a high percentage of the eyesight problems which afflict schoolchildren.

In announcing this special week, Mr Palmer's statement concluded: "because in their daily practice optometrists meet so many schoolchildren with visual defects, we feel that our profession has a responsibility to call the attention of parents and educators to the causes underlying these visual defects, as they relate to education."

The Alberta Optometric Association is co-operating with the Canadian Association in this special campaign.

MUTUAL PARTY
"Prayer Time" followed, then a poem by the M.C. entitled, "It's Not the Mutual, It's You." He also read ten somewhat practised ways to kill Mutual. "The Ink Spots" from Sterling featured soloist Cleo Brandley, piano Pat Brandley, and banjo, Carol Hirsche. Petite Dolores O'Connell of Lethbridge sang three songs in the lighter vein. Leonard Isaacson, Superintendent of the Lethbridge Stake, entertained with his very humorous impersonation of "Phonetic Punctuation." Mrs Stringham, also of Lethbridge, pleased her audience with a couple of "saw" solos. During the program, members of the Fourth Ward who were sent out in search of new blood from various homes of all the Wards returned with several persons. They were taken on the stage to shake hands with Kenneth Stone who represented a weakened run-down Mutual. Immediately new vim, vigor vitality flowed through his veins, causing him to jump for sheer joy and exuberance. Kay Redd then urged all Ward Mutuals to seek out new blood by bringing new friends out to Mutual, those friends who have forgotten there is such a thing as a Mutual organization in their Wards. New blood is wanted at Mutual!

DAMAGE AT CEMETERY
Some, indeed most, of the damage done at the cemetery is pure vandalism but some is only an act of carelessness by an otherwise courteous person. Such was the case recently — at a recent burial someone drove over a freshly watered plot that was seeded to grass this year, making impressions about two inches deep. A lot of work had been put into the beautifying of this grave and by this single act that work was almost completely wasted as most of it will have to be done a gain. This means actual dollars out of the pockets of the people who help support the Cemetery Board in this work by their contributions. To help stamp out such occurrences the Board has offered a $25 reward for anyone turning in information regarding this act of carelessness.

Father (to his son's teacher): "How is Bobby doing in History? I was never any good at it in my school-days."

Teacher: "I'm afraid history is repeating itself."

A woman's anguished voice shrilled over the telephone. "Oh, officer, two young men are trying to get into my room through the window."

"Sorry, lady," was the reply, "you have made a mistake. This isn't the police station. This is the fire station."

"I know that," said the voice impatiently. "It's the fire station I'm after. They need a longer ladder."

Mrs Angus Atwood is presently visiting her daughter and son-in-law, Mr and Mrs Rulon Hirsche at Fort Macleod during Mrs Hirsche's convalescence after an illness.

One dark night two owls were perched on an exposed branch. They sat snuggled up together, talking happily. Suddenly a heavy shower drenched the pair, and the male bird lapsed into a sullen silence.

The female owl tried to get him to talk, but he refused to pay her any attention. Finally she asked: "Don't you love me any more?"

The muttered reply came: "Too-wet-to-woo, too-wet-to-woo."

LION UNBOWED

The lion and the unicorn were fighting for the crown. The lightning struck in our street and knocked the latter down. The real remained, the fable fell; The lion stood august and brave. However fair the fantasy Of horned and milk-white steed may be When the lion reared heraldically, The fable flinched and gave. The unicorn played out its part As pledge that things may sometimes be, Rarer and stranger than men knew; But on that morning when the dew Lay in the parks and a huge rainbow Hung arched above the waking town The lion stood secure and free, While the unicorn fell down.

Two boys spending a day in the country came upon a man fly-fishing. After watching him cast his line several times, one of them remarked to the other: "Oh, come on, Bill, He'll never catch anything—he's trying to lasso 'em."

Mrs Louis Brandley was the hostess when the Ladies Literary Score met Wednesday afternoon to enjoy Mrs Grace Allen's review of the article "We Adopted 12 Children Nobody Wanted" by Helen Doss - their mixed blood made them "unadoptable" until a warmhearted man and woman proved that family happiness in more than skin-deep.

A lovely lunch was served to the guests who included Mesdames H. Ostlund of Lethbridge, Margaret Taylor, Lela Benson, Kathleen Newman, Kathleen and Nola Brandley.

TO A CHILD ON A WINDY DAY
Wind must like fluffy things, I think.
Things that are light to toss,
Like dandelions gone to seed
And cottonwood-tree floss.
And other fluffy things it likes
To run its fingers through—
Like the down on chicks and Kittens
And the fluffy curls on you.

On Friday Mr. and Mrs. Jack Evans motored to Great Falls with their son Doug, who left from their for Salt Lake prior to entering the Mission Field.

It was a very cold day. Isaacs and Cohen had walked about four miles, hands deep in pockets, without either making a single remark.
"Vy don't you say something?" said Cohen at last.
"Freeze your own hands!" replied to brave men.

"Now, students," said the teacher, "after what I have explained of the lion's fierceness, strength and daring, can any of you name a single animal that the king of beasts is afraid of?"
Up shot little Billy's hand.
"Well," the teacher asked, "Which animal is it, Billy?"
"The Lioness," replied Billy.
